Spring Without Blossoms. LATE IN LIFE TO LOOK FOR JOY—YET NEVER TOO LATE TO MEND.

Readers of Hawthorne's "House of Seven Gables" will recall the pathos with which poor Clifford Pyncheon, who had been unjustly imprisoned since his early manhood, said, after his release, : "My life is gone, and where is my happiness? Oh! give me my happiness." But that could be done only in part, as gleams of warm sunshine occasionally fall across the gloom of a New England autumn day.

In a letter to Messrs. Bisco x & Co., Mr. L. H. Titus, of Pennington, N. J., says: "I have suffered untold misery from childhood from chronic disease of the bowels and diarrhœa, accompanied by great pain. I sought relief at the hands of physicians of every school and used every patent and domestic remedy under the sun. I have at last found in PARKER'S TONIC a complete specific, preventive and cure. As your invaluable medicine, which did for me what nothing else could do, is entitled to the credit of my getting back my happy days, I cheerfully and gratefully acknowledge the fact."

Mr. E. S. Wells, who needs no introduction to the people of Jersey City, adds: "The testimonial of Mr. Titus is genuine and voluntary; only he does not adequately portray the suffering he has endured for many years. He is my brother-in-law, and I know the case well. He is now perfectly free from his old troubles and enjoys health and life, ascribing it all to PARKER'S TONIC.

Unequalled as an invigorant; stimulates all the organs; cures all ailments of the liver, kidneys, and all diseases of the blood.

How Watch Cases are Made.

In buying a silver watch case great care should be taken to secure one that is solid silver throughout. The cap of most cheap silver cases is made of a composition known as albata, which is a very poor substitute for silver, as it turns black in a short time. The backs of such cases are made much thinner than those of an all silver case, being robbed in order to make the cap thicker and get in as much as possible of the cheap metal. Another important point in a silver case is the joints or hinges, which should be made of gold. Those of most cheap cases are made of silver, which is not a suitable metal for that purpose. In a brief period it warps, bends and spreads apart, allowing the backs to become loose upon the case and admitting the dust and dirt that accummulate in the pocket. The Keystone Silver Watch Cases are only made with silver caps and gold joints.

ST. LOUIS, MO., Feb. 17, 1883. In working and varied experience in handling watches, we cannot but acknowledge and give our testimony that the Keystone Solid Silver Watch Cases are the best made to our knowledge. Having no soldering they remain homogeneous, harder and stiffer than they would be were they heated for soldering, and have more resisting power against pressure than any other cases in the market. SELECT STORY.

A FAVOR OF FORTUNE.

Jason Hall, a quaint, old, castellated structure of the time of Queen Elizabeth, situated upon the coast of Essex and overlooking the English Channel, was the seat of Admiral Sir Thomas Stront, a rough, robust old British sailor, who flourished during the latter part of the last and the beginning of the present centuries. Originally the place had been called an abbey. The Admiral had given it its present name in honor of the old Jason frigate, on board which he had served as post captain when it was the flagship of England's sailor-King, William IV., then Admiral, and Duke of Clarence.

In 1832, the time of which we write, Sir Thomas, grown old and battered in the service, had been honorably retired upon full pay. He was never so happy as when he could induce old shipmates to share his hospitality.

Admirals of the Red, the White or the Blue were all gladly entertained by Sir Thomas. Post captains were always welcome; even a commander, if his war record was good, might find favor in his sight. But lower than that he did not go. In fact, he was an aristocrat of the first water—the very saltest of the salt; and he would sooner have admitted to social equality the boatswains and the gunners of the old school than to have admitted a lieutenant of the new.

The only near relative which the old Admiral had was a granddaughter, whom he came very near to worshiping. His wife had died when quite young, leaving only one child, a beautiful girl, who the proud father was wont to declare was the handsomest and the best and the most intelligent girl in the kingdom.

She, rather late in life—her father having kept the general run of lovers at a distance, became the wife of an Earl, but the Earl was so poor that when he died, only five years after his marriage, he did not leave behind him the wherewith to pay his debts, the result being that Lady Irene, the Admiral's daughter, came home to her father, bringing with her an infant daughter—the little Lady Emeline.

At the time of the opening of our story Sir Thomas' daughter had been dead several years, and the Lady Emeline had grown to a beautiful maiden of 19, with a character that lacked nothing to make it lovely and lovable. And she had a lover—a young lieutenant of the Royal Navy—named George Ayling. He had come first to Jason Hall, having been sent with a passage to the old Admiral by the Board of Admiralty. On that occasion had to remain all night, and Sir Thomas had detailed Lady Emeline to entertain him. He was a brave, loyal, true-hearted man, 26 years of age, tall and strong and handsome, so handsome and so genial and so pure-minded that his beautiful young hostess fell in love with him during that first visit.

He was attached to the naval department at Whitehall, being on the staff of one of the lord commissioners. His father was only a merchant, but one of the most wealthy in London. In fact, few men had more influence at court than had the elder Ayling, he having been a life-long friend and a devoted helper of the present King, and he never obtruded himself. The only favor he had ever asked had been in behalf of his son.

Lieutenant Ayling had fallen desperately in love with Lady Emeline, and at length he told her of it, and he told her so heartily and so ardently and so lovingly that she could not keep back her own confession, but said: "Oh, George! my love! my heart is all your own now."

But when he talked of speaking with her grandfather she trembled. She knew the old Admiral's whims and inconsistencies, and she feared he would oppose their union.

"Fortune favors the brave," said George, laughingly. "Faint heart never won fair lady. I shall beard the tiger in his den. Surely he cannot eat me."

And, on a certain afternoon, when the lieutenant had brought down a packet from the naval office, and had seen and spoken with his darling, he approached the old Admiral in his sanctum sanctorum and told of his love for the beautiful Emeline, and boldly asked the veteran for her hand.

What a shock was that for the British Admiral! At first he could not credit the evidence of his senses. It could not be possible that he had heard aright. And the ardent lover stated his case a second time—stated it so there could be no mistake. And then the wrathful torrent burst forth.

What! A lieutenant! Son of a London merchant! A mere nobody! A strippling, who had never smelt powder! Who had never seen a fleet put in line of battle! Marry with his granddaughter—the daughter of an Earl! And so he went on to the close; and the close was this: "Get out of my house, sir! Get out, sir! And don't you dare to speak with the Lady Emeline again! You! You! You! marry with the granddaughter and heiress of Admiral Sir Thomas Stront! By heavens, if she should do such a thing as listen to your tale of love, I would—would—I don't know what I should do; but, if she should marry with you, I'd cast her off on the instant! Now, go! I think you have your answer!"

The young and gentlemanly Lieutenant was thunderstruck—utterly astounded. He gazed upon the foaming old tiger as he might have gazed upon a South Sea Islander gone mad.

"Well, sir, d'you hear me? Why don't you move? What are you waiting here for? I don't think you've got any more to say!" blustered the irate Admiral, while the extraordinary rush of blood to the head gave to his rough and puffy face a color purely crimson.

"Only this, my dear sir, for the present," returned Ayling, mildly and modestly, and bowing politely. "I would like to know, sir, through you, if the specimen of speech and behavior which I have just witnessed may be taken as a fair sample of the life and intercourse of the quarter-deck in the historic and heroic days of His Majesty's royal navy?"

Having thus spoken he bowed again very low and then turned to leave the room, passing out under a torrent of abuse.

On the broad piazza George met the Lady Emeline. When she saw his face she caught him eagerly by the arm and asked what had happened. He told her as nearly as he thought proper.

"Oh, George, dear heart, I feared it—I feared it! I have been in a fever of anxiety all the time you have been gone. What shall we do—alas! what?"

"Never surrender, my own dear promised one! Let us consider. We will take time. I have friends in London who will gladly help us. At all events, we won't give up the ship just yet."

Her lover's strength and heartiness, his confidence in right and justice, and his masterful manner of speech and purpose, soon brought the sorrowful maiden into a more hopeful state, so that when he left her he left smiles upon her face.

The lieutenant, since his interview with Sir Thomas, had resolved to return at once to London. The stage coach from Shoreham to Chichester would pass shortly, and the nearest way from the Hall to the highway was through the great park. He had struck into the well-beaten path, and had gained, perhaps, half the distance when he was brought to a sudden stop by a scene that commanded at once his earnest sympathy.

An elderly gentleman, who had evidently been on his way to the Hall, had been attacked by a savage stag that broke loose from the deer park. Ayling well knew the nature and disposition of the animal, as he had once had a bout with him on his own account. He was one of the largest of his class; literally, "a monarch of the glen," which had been sent to the lord of the manor from the highlands of Scotland. His widely-branching antlers were of enormous size, and the man who should once get fairly caught thereon might calculate upon a speedy exit from this sublunary sphere.

The individual attacked was certainly more than three score—perhaps nearer to three-score and ten—habited in a sort of undress, free-and-easy naval uniform; naturally, one would judge, a pleasant-faced old man; but just at present so excessively frightened that marks of character might go for nothing.

When our hero first discovered him he had dodged behind a large oak tree, while the stag stood ready for a charge on the opposite side.

Ayling saw in an instant that when the stag should make another onset it would be next to impossible for his victim to escape; and if the infuriated beast once reached him what could save him?

The brave youth hesitated only long enough to fully grasp the situation. He had great confidence in his own physical strength, and he believed he could throw the animal from his feet.

At all events he would not see a defenceless old man killed before his face while he had strength and sense to make an effort. He took a critical view of every point, and then, with a bound and a yell, he leaped forward.

Exactly how he did it he never could tell. He caught the branching antlers, at the same time striking with heavy force against the stag's shoulders; then, with all his strength, twisting the head backward and drawing it towards him, while he struck his foot with a solid kick against the leg nearest to him.

The effort was successful. He brought the stag down upon his side, driving his nose into the gravel and pressing his knees upon the neck and shoulder. Then he shouted to the old gentleman to run. There was a gate not ten rods away, which he could easily reach.

"Run for the gate and I will follow," was his command, and when he had almost reached it the lieutenant sprang to his feet and sped after him, and before the demoralized beast could recover his senses both the men were safe.

"Well, young man, you have saved my life. Don't you think so?"

"I certainly think, sir, that I saved you from a great danger."

"Ay, you saved my life. Who are you?"

Ayling was well satisfied that the old gentleman was nothing less than a retired Admiral and he respected him accordingly.

"I am George Ayling, sir, a lieutenant in His Majesty's navy.

"Are you the son of Arthur Ayling, the London merchant?"

"I am sir—his only son."

"Ay; I remember; I gave a word for him to the Admiralty when he was seeking to get a place in the navy for his boy. Really, I am glad that I have met you. And now, what are you doing here?"

It struck the youth that if this man had influence, and was at the same time a friend of Sir Thomas, he might possibly help him; so, in a very delicate and modest manner, he told the whole story—told of his love for the Lady Emeline—of her love for him, of his late interview with Sir Thomas, and of the result.

The old man laughed outright.

"Oh, the old sea dog! What a growler he is! But, young man, do you come with me. By St. George! I will give old Tom a piece of my mind. Come along I won't let him eat you."

Ayling hesitated but for a little time. His aged friend seemed so confident, and was so pleasant, eager, jovial, that he quickly gave in, and turned back with him towards the Hall.

They had reached the broad graveled driveway in front of the mansion when they discovered the Lady Emeline herself upon the piazza, sitting with her head bent upon her hand, like one disconsolate.

"Hold on," said the old man; "do you let me go on in advance and speak a word with the lady before you come up." And without further remark he hastened on.

Ayling saw him ascend the piazza; saw Emeline start quickly to her feet with an exclamation of surprise; saw him take her hand and raise it to his lips; and then he spoke. Presently the beautiful face was transfigured, and the dear girl clapped her hands with a cry of joy. The eager lover could tarry no longer. He hastened forward, and as he joined them, and once more took his darling's hand, the good old man bade them follow him, and, as he thus commanded, he turned and strode on in the direction of the old Admiral's sanctum, the two lovers, hand-in-hand, following close behind.

Having arrived at the sanctum—or the "Growler," as it was commonly called—they found Sir Thomas there alone, with a pipe in his mouth, and a decanter and glass at his elbow.

He saw the intruder, and was upon his feet in an instant, his pipe dropped and broken, and his red face the picture of astonishment.

"What! Sire! If my old eyes do not decieve me, this is a proud and happy moment!"

"Hold on, Tom. I am not to be welcomed unless you can welcome one of the best and dearest friends I have in the world. And here he is—Lieutenant Ayling. I propose to make him a post captain as soon as possible. Say, old shipmate, shall we be welcome together?"

Ayling, as might be supposed, when he thus discovered that it was his King whom he had rescued from mortal peril, was deeply and powerfully affected, but his senses did not leave him.

He saw the pitiable situation of Sir Thomas, and, in the goodness of his heart, he moved quickly forward to his relief.

"Sir Thomas," he said, extending his hand, "let us forget the past."

"But don't forget me!" cried the King, jokingly.

"No danger of that," responded Ayling, heartily, and with deep, true feeling. "When a British seaman forgets England's gallant sail-or-King we may look for chaos come again!"

"Well said! You are right, my true-hearted boy!" exclaimed the old Admiral plainly by way of settling himself right with his sovereign, and he grasped the youth's outstretched hand as he added, "That sentiment does you credit, my boy; and His Majesty—God bless and keep him!—avouches for you I should be a traitor and renegade, indeed, if I could refuse thus to extend the hand of friendship. Welcome! Welcome to the pair of you!"

And then, having taken breath, he demanded: "Sire, pray tell me, how in the world did you get here? How came you, and wence?"

"My dear old Tom, I ran away from the turmoil of the Court on purpose to get a day of blessed rest and recreation with you. I came in my coach, and left it at the rear gate of you park, directing my groom to find the stables as best he could, while took a comfortable walk beneath your majestic old oaks. But it came near being a last walk to me, and if it had not been for our brave and gallant boy here—son of one of the very best friends heaven ever gave me—you might never have seen William IV. of England alive again. But I'll tell you shortly about it over a pipe and a glass."

Shortly after this the two young people were sent away to look after the work of the gardener, the King hailing our hero as he was turning away.

"By the way, Lieutenant——, I don't like that title. We must make it Captain. You have lost the stage coach for to-day, so you may tarry over night, if Sir Thomas can find a bed for you, and ride back with me."

And then the two shipmates were left to themselves to revel in the scenes and to fight over again the battles of the times agone.

We will only add, before the young Lieutenant left the hall he was permitted to hold the Lady Emeline by the hand under the favor of a blessed fortune, for the old Admiral had smiled upon their love and given his consent to their union.

The Income of the Noted New York Journalist $200,000 a Year.

I learn that Mr. Dana's income from the Sun is not only princely, but that it is exceeded only princely, but that it is exceeded only by that of Mr. Bennett. When Mr. Dana took hold of the Sun he made a contract with the trustees to edit the paper at a salary of $10,000 a year. He had then some twenty shares in the paper. Said he: "Now, if the profits of the paper are large I think I ought to have an interest in them outside of my salary, and I propose that all dividends above twenty-five per cent. shall be divided and that I have half." The stockholders, to whom a dividend of twenty-five per cent. seemed not only very large, but very improbable, said: "Why, of course, if we declare any dividends over twenty-five per cent. you shall have one half." "Will you make a contract to that effect for ten years?" said Mr. Dana. The stockholders agreed and the contracts were made.

Within two years the paper paid over fifty per cent. and for a number of years has not paid less than eighty. The ten-year contract expired a year or two ago, and it was renewed, with this change, that Mr. Dana gets one half of all the dividends over forty per cent. I hear, on the best authority, that Mr. Dana's share last year, including his salary, was $207,000.—N. Y. Cor. Washington Capital.

PERFECT BUTTER.—Mr. Robert Hall, an Ohio butter inspector, says that where butter is properly churned, both as to time and temperature, it becomes firm with very little working, and it is tenacious; but its most desirable state is waxy, when it is easily moulded into any shape, and may be drawn out a considerable length without breaking. It is then styled gilt-edge. It is only in this state that butter possesses that rich nutty taste and smell, and shows up a rich golden yellow color which imparts so high a degree of pleasure in eating it, and which increases its value manifold. It is not always necessary, when it smells sweet, to taste butter in judging it. The smooth unctious feel in rubbing a little between the finger and thumb expresses at once its rich quality; the nutty smell and rich aroma indicate a similar taste; and the bright, golden glistening, cream colored surface, shows its height of cleanliness. It may be necessary at times to use a tryer, or use it until you become an expert in testing by taste, smell and rubbing.

At Point Barrow, Alaska, the recently returned United States expedition found evidence that the ground is frozen to a depth of nearly 300 feet. Below a point a few yards from the surface the temperature never changes. From November to May no living thing may be seen on this land except the Innuit and his dog, and an occasional stray reindeer or white fox.

A Woman Bandit.

LA CARAMBODA KILLED, AFTER AN EXTRAORDINARY CAREER OF CRIME.

La Caramboda, the woman brigand, long a terror to travelers in this region, is dead at last, with a bullet in her heart. Her operations extended over many years and were of the most daring description. For a long time the authorities found it very difficult to trace or even to explain the crime which she committed, for no one suspected that a woman was the guilty person. No two of her robberies were committed in the same manner. Sometimes she was a passenger and at other times she was with the bandits, and took part in the shooting if there was any to be done. A woman of some personal charms when appropriately dressed, she was a fiend when about her business of murder and pilage, whom very few cared to encounter. Her male assistants were many and devoted.

One of her schemes, it has been learned, was to bide her time in some town until she found one or two men of means who were going by the diligence to some distant point and then take passage with them. It is suspected that on more than one occasion she took the driver into her confidence, but when this could not be done she readily deceived him or quieted him with a bullet. A perfect mistress of the art of dissimulation and possessing a soft and insinuating manner, she had no difficulty in working herself into the good graces of travelers who did not look for a Mexican bandit under her attractive guise. In this way she easily discovered who had money and valuables and who had not. If she found a man who appeared to be of some consequence, but who did not have much money, she betrayed him into the hands of her confederates, who held him for a ransom. If her victim proved to be well supplied with cash he usually met a violent death within twenty-four hours.

Leaving a town before daybreak in company with two travelers whom she had marked for robbery, she would coyly accept the customary innocent attentions at their hands, and perhaps indulge in a little conversation with them. An hour later, when well on the journey, watching her opportunity, she would draw two revolvers, and, before they could detect her movement, lodge a bullet in the back of each of them. The driver, busy with his team, and perhaps paid not to be too attentive to what was going on behind him, would not disturb her. With her booty secure, she would take her own time about leaving the stage, always waiting until a point convenient to the fastness of some of her confederates was reached.

It was known that the highways were infested by robbers and it was not thought strange that an occasional murder was perpetrated, but the similarity between several cases soon attracted attention and various experiments led to the discovery that a woman, operating first on one road and then on another, was at the bottom of them. The plausible stories told by the drivers served to mystify the officers more than anything else. They always asserted that the highwaymen had done the work and if inquiry was made at one end of the route for the woman who started it was always said that she arrived at her destination unmolested. The absence of telegraphs and of any regular means of communication made it possible to keep up this deception for a long time.

When the woman found that she was suspected she abandoned this plan of operation and, remaining with the robber band to which she was attached, devoted the greater part of her time to the abduction of wealthy agriculturists. Her plan in these cases was very much the same as in her stage robbery enterprises. First winning the confidence of her intended victim and getting him involved in some intrigue, she would betray him at the proper time into the hands of her associates, who would spirit him away and presently open negotiations for his return. While these were in progress she would be busy setting her net for a fresh victim a hundred miles away.

THE COLUMBIAN.

G. E. Elwell, J. K. Dittenbender., } Editors.

BLOOMSBURG, PA.

FRIDAY, JUNE 27, 1884.

The Reading Times sees trouble in the fact that Cleveland is a bachelor, and remarks that Buchanan and Tilden were also bachelors. Both were elected too, it might have added.

The Democratic National Convention, to be held in Chicago next month, will be composed of 820 delegates but the eighteen delegates from the Territories and the District of Columbia will not be allowed to vote. As the two-thirds rule will prevail in the Democratic Convention, it will require 535 votes to nominate the candidates for President and Vice President.

The Philadelphia Press is making an effort to obtain $20,000 from parties interested in a high protective tariff. With this money it proposes to pay itself for papers to be sent broadcast over the country during the campaign. We always supposed that the Press advocated a protective tariff as a matter of principle, but this looks very much as though it has adopted that theory as a money-making scheme.

The Army bill, as amended in the Senate, appropriates nearly $300,000 more than the House voted; the Legislative, Executive, and Judicial bill, as enlarged by the Senate committee, appropriates over a million additional. Every appropriation bil thus far, if we rightly remember, has been increased in the Senate, the addition to the Navy bill being the greatest of all. The friends of the River and Harbor job are relying on this peculiarity of the Senate for adding several millions to that annual steal. Yet all these measures combined sink into insignificance compared with the Senate's proposed amendments to the Mexican Pension bill, which would take more than $300,000,000 out of the Treasury.

Apropos of cremation, there are several interesting reports among the medical reports of the Imperial Maritime Customs of China. One states that children are sometimes cremated from superstitious reasons. Where several young children in a family have died in succession it is believed that if one is cremated the next one born will survive. There is only one Buddhist temple in which the inmates are cremated. The simple method consists in placing the body in a stone seat inside a small dome-like building, in the temple grounds. The interior of this structure communicates with the open air by a small door. Around the body a quantity of firewood and charcoal is placed; this is set on fire and the door is closed until complete combustion has taken place. The bones are collected and placed in a jar, which is kept in a mortuary chapel.

Every Democratic voter of this county is interested in seeing that the party nominations for county offices should be made fairly and honestly, so that no questions can be raised after the convention that may lead to dissensions, and thereby weaken the vote for President in November. To secure this result there should be a full attendance at the delegate election. It is too often the case that the delegate election is considered a matter of little importance, and many men will not take the trouble to go to the polls. Under the present rules of the party, the nominations are virtually made by the people at the primaries, and the convention is simply the machine which declares the result. In this way a small portion of the party may make the nominations, whereas the candidates named should be the choice of a majority. A full vote and unbiassed expression of the people in the selection of delegates who cannot be tampered with, will leave no room for charges of corruption of any kind. Let us try it that way once.

In making a selection of a candidate for President the Democratic party must look at things as they are. They are confronted by an opposition ticket that is acknowledged to be a strong one, and one that will command the support of the great body of republican voters. This must be met with a candidate on our side who can draw out a full democratic vote. There are enough democrats in the country to elect a President, and wise action on the part of the Chicago convention will bring about this result. But it will not be wise to select a candidate simply because he can draw the vote of dissatisfied republicans, nor because he has been nominated by several other so-called parties. This would be a repetition of the Greely blunder of 1872, and it would undoubtedly meet with the same disastrous defeat. There are dissensions in the opposition, and it is evident that many influential republicans will not support Blaine, but when taken in comparison with the millions of voters of the country their number is so small that it would be suicidal to name a candidate at their dictation. Let the choice of the party be a sound democrat, with a clean record; let him be nominated on democratic principles, and placed upon a democratic platform. After that the ranks are open, and all those who see the error of their past political views, and who wish to support our candidate, should be welcomed with open arms. But it would be a blunder to name a man simply for the reason that the malcontents and soreheads of the republican party could be drawn in by such a nomination. The democratic party can better suffer defeat than to sacrifice principle as a matter of expediency.

The Independents at Work.

NEW YORK, June 20.—The independent republican organization committee appointed by George Wm. Curtis met to day and chose Mr. Curtis chairman. It was decided to name the committee, "The independent republican committee."

The following document was approved and will be circulated throughout the country for signatures:

"The undersigned, protesting against the nomination of Blaine and Logan, propose to join their fellow republicans and independent voters in sending representatives to a general conference to be held immediately after the democratic national convention, which conference shall consider, in case the democratic nominations do not justify the support of the protesting republicans, what further action may be necessary to secure candidates who will appeal to the interests of clean and honest politics and the sober, honest sense of the American people."

Buried in a Trance.

THE SUPPOSED FATE OF A WEST VIRGINA BRIDE OF BUT THREE MONTHS.

One of those ghastly stories of interment before life has become extinct, which cause an involuntary shudder of horror to pass through the reader, is current in Wheeling. The victim, so the story goes, is a young married lady of twenty years. In May of last year, three months after her marriage, the lady was taken violently ill, and after lingering for ten days, apparently died. There were certain peculiarities about the appearance of the supposed corpse, however, which caused a suspicion in the mind of the attending physician that his patient might be in a trance; but after keeping the body for four days, with no signs of returning life, the remains were consigned to the grave, temporary interment being made in the family lot in an abandoned graveyard. A few days ago the body was disinterred prior to removal to another cemetery. To the surprise of the sexton the coffin lid showed signs of displacement, and on its being removed the grave-digger was horrified to find the remains turned face downward, the hands filled with long tufts of hair torn from the head, and the face, neck and bosom deeply scratched and scarred, while the lining of the coffin had been torn into fragments in the desperate efforts of the entombed victim to escape from her terrible fate. Since the discovery the young husband has been prostrated and his life is despaired of. The names are withheld.

Trades for Young Men.

The fact that apprentices are becoming fewer each year has become a fruitful subject for discussion. Some ascribe this state of affairs to the policy of the trades unions and others to the unwillingness of the rising generation to engage in any occupation less "genteel" than that of a dry-goods clerk, or a book-keeper, or a vender of drugs and toilet articles. Parents are largely responsible for the increasing lack of interest in the various trades. They fail to study the character of their boys, and, above all, fail to inculcate in their youthful minds a proper respect for the dignity of labor. Some people think they have done their whole duty when they furnish their children with the necessary books and send them to school. In truth their duty has hardly begun. In the first place the every-day life of the lad should be thoroughly familiar to his parents. If he manifests any special aptitude the parent should be on hand to see that it is developed. As it is, the average boy becomes his own master the day he enters school. In time his ideas become inflated, and at the age when he ought to be wearing the apron of an artisan he eschews trades and becomes little better than a mere looker-on in the world. Unless parents assume the responsibility that rightfully attaches to them, the skillful mechanic will be missing one of these days, and in his place will be found a foreigner. The bare thought of such a state of affairs should be sufficient to create a decided change in the present method in rearing the youth of our land.—Buffalo Courier.

Mr. Randall and the Democratic Nomination.

A writer in the Pittsburgh Post presents a series of excellent reasons for nominating Mr. Samuel J. Randall as the Democratic candidate for the Presidency:

"Because he is a tried man, and not an experiment. He was a Democrat in the days when it tried men's souls to be Democrats, and was always true and unflinching, never once faltering in his fidelity to the old party when her ranks were broken and the banner trampled in the dust. Has the Democratic party no gratitude?

"Because he is an honest man; and in these days of fraud and dishonesty on the part of public men, good old-fashioned honesty is the grand requisite of all. For upwards of twenty years Samuel J. Randall has been in public life, and while hundreds of his fellows have fallen scathed and blackened by fraud and dishonesty, his worst enemy has not charged anything upon him of a dishonorable character. It is a noble thing to be said of a man when it can be truthfully said.

"Because he can carry Pennsylvania against Blaine. This is apparent to all who look beneath the surface. Ask the Republicans who are not willing to vote for Blaine, and nine out of every ten will say, we prefer Randall, because we believe him to be both capable and honest.'

"Because he occupies the only safe ground on the question of a tariff. We want a man who has conservative views on that question. Every thinking man knows that any change in our import duties would cause a financial wreck in this country.

Mr. Randall by his conservative course saved us from this. Besides, the Democrat to party just now have a more pressing issue to meet, that is, the question whether this country is to be any longer under the control of thieves. Let them address themselves to that question at Chicago, the tariff can abide awhile. And, at all events, the man who thinks he can lay down a tariff plank at Chicago for every Democrat of this vast country to walk on is in danger of lunacy.

There are many other reasons why Mr. Randall should receive the nomination at the hands of the party he has served so long and well, but let this suffice for the present. They come from the rank and file, and are addressed to those who really desire the triumph of honesty and truth over fraud and dishonesty."

Mr. Randall would make a very strong candidate and a first-rate President. But can he be nominated? Would that this question could be answered affirmatively!

The Causes of Poverty.

The reasons why the poor are always with us it might be worth while to inquire into much more carefully and systematically than has yet been done. In general the causes of poverty in the United States at least are susceptible of being determined, yet there is in fact very little definite knowledge on this important subject. The executive committee of the Associated Charities of Boston have been at the trouble of collecting the statistics in regard to the cases brought under their notice. These they have given to the public in an elaborate report. Four principal causes are given, which cover all but a very small percentage of the total number of instances brought under the society's notice. They are intemperance, ignorance, laziness and pride.

Nine-tenths of all the poverty was found to be owing to drunkenness, leaving the other tenth to be divided among the other causes. Only a very small percentage of real want was found to be due to illness or bad luck, notwithstanding these two causes get the credit of a great deal of the misery in the world. What was found to be true in Boston would doubtless be found to be true the country over if the same care was taken to gather the statistics and analyze the causes.

The reader will say that there is nothing new in this statement and that everybody knew these facts before. In a general way this is true, and yet the presentation of the facts and figures is advisable whenever and wherever possible. The charitable associations in this city and the country over could do no better work than to collect statistics on this subject and publish them, too. Preachers and teachers should impress them and reiterate them before their audiences and pupils.

It has become the fashion of late to sneer at the Poor Richard idea of insisting upon the principles of economy, temperance and industry in training the young, and hence the increasing tide of paupers and mendicants. The line upon line method of instilling proper knowledge into the public mind is old-fashioned, but it is the only method that is good for anything, after all.—Philadelphia Times.

Listen for Logan!

This is going to be a real lively campaign. The republican candidates must divert the popular consideration from the numerous murky attachments to the record of their ticket's head, Mr. JINGO BLAINE, as well as from a point or two perhaps in the history of their ticket's tail, JACK LOGAN. The means on which they most rely to do this is talk. There will be all sorts of talk, and much of it; lots of bluster and brag, of whoops and hullabaloo and eagle screams from BLAINE, and howls and yells, perhaps both Yankee and rebel, from LOGAN. The air will be full of the revolutions and fights of the past, and the possible and probable scrimmages of the future; and the ground will be strewn with the fragments of all the old Fourth of July orations that have been brought out again to help give tone to the canvass, and have failed to stand the strain. Both the first and second Republican candidate will talk from end to end of the campaign, and the talk will be full of gush and expectation, and with little to say about the past. The past can't be helped.

But the only speeches that will be at all worth watching will be Black JACK'S. There will be nothing cut and dried about them. Every one may know what he will say, but nobody, not even Black JACK, knows beforehand how he will say it. The regulation curves and channels of our native language are not those in which the tongue of LOGAN has been accustomed to travel; and though in his speech he may set for himself the same mark as the average man, he will be sure to move toward it over an unexplored and original road. When he begins a sentence he leaves the well-worn grammatical track as a lofty tumbler spurns the springboard, and like an athlete who has lost his "cut" in the midst of a double somersault, he turns and writhes in helplessness, grimly certain that he must come down sometime, but equally in doubt whether it will be on his head or on his heels. But finally down he comes, no matter how or where, and as soon as that flight is over, no matter how disastrous to his reputation as a student of LINDLEY MURRAY, he is up and ready for the next jump. Without regard to their wisdom, the freshest and most entertaining documents of the approaching campaign will be the oratorical deliverances of Black JACK of Egypt.—N. Y. Sun.

The Madigan Circular.

EX-GOV. PLAISTED, OF MAINE, SAYS THAT HE SAW MR. BLAINE WRITE IT.

From the Albany Argus.

The Argus has the word of Ex-Governor Harris M. Plaisted, of Maine that, to his personal knowledge, James G. Blaine is the author of the circular inserted within this article. The circular was employed in the 1875 political campaign by the republican state committee of Maine, and of that committee Mr. Blaine was then the chairman. It was used in the Fourth congress district of that state, and thousands upon thousands of it were sent to voters, under the orders and by the hand of James G. Blaine. This is the circular:

To the Protestant Democrats of the Fourth district desire to be represented in congress by a Roman Catholic? James G. Madigan, the Democrat candidate for congress in the Fourth district, is a very zealous Roman Catholic. It is believed by many that he is a lay member of the secret order of Jesuits, just as the late Senator Casserly of California was. Casserly was elected to the senate by Jesuit money—$100,000 by that order—and the fact being discovered, Casserly at once resigned his seat, rather than stand an investigation, and thus expose the workings of the order. In Ohio and other states the Catholics are striving to destroy the only avenue of education left open to the children of the poor. They say, "We will have church schools instead," and thus let loose the worst of theological quarrels all over the land. It is a great gain to the Catholics to get these prominent men in Congress. They have now four members of the United States senate, one each from the state of New York, Missouri, Virginia and Florida. The whole energy of the Catholic church is now exerted to increase its power in the congress of the United States. The Papists everywhere are watching the result of Madigan's campaign in this district, and it will be hailed everywhere as a great triumph for the Catholics, if a New England Protestant district sends a Roman Catholic to represent it in congress. Are the Protestant democrats of the Fourth district willing to aid in building up the Roman hierarchy? Answer at the polls on the 13th of September, and if you do not feel willing to vote for General Plaistead, at least cut Madigan's name off your regular democratic ticket. Remember that you owe more to religious sentiments than you do to your party; and the proper rebuke to your party for asking you to vote for a Roman Catholic is to support General Connor for governor and General Plaisted for congress.

PROTESTANT DEMOCRAT.

This circular written by Mr. Blaine, and signed in a deceiving and untrue manner, according to ex-Governor Plaisted, was issued against Mr. James C. Madigan, the Democratic candidate for congress in that district. He was American born of Irish parents, a respected lawyer and citizen. His religion was Catholic. The candidate opposing him was the Hon. Harris M. Plaisted, already referred to. The appeal made to prejudice in the circular elected Plaisted and defeated Madigan. It will be recalled that Mr. Plaisted afterward left the republican party, and in 1880 became the governor of Maine, elected on a fusion ticket. He everywhere bears the reputation of a truthful man. He says that Blaine wrote the circular and that he saw him do it. Mr. Blaine has made no denial of the allegation. It will be impossible for him to deny that he franked thousands of copies of the circular to voters, for they received them, and many of his franked envelopes are preserved.

FIRST.—A three story brick building on Court House alley, near the Court House, and attached to the Brower Building in the rear used for law offices &c., and formerly known as the Columbian Building including the small alley way on the north.

SECOND.—A two and ½ story brick house on third Street adjoining lot of Peter S. Brugler on the east and a vacant lot of C. B. Brockway on the west, containing a front of fifty-two feet, and a depth of about 214 feet,—the said house being furnished in all its rooms with gas fixtures; also water, a bath room, Baltimore heater, &c. There is also on the premises a good stable, and other out buildings.

THIRD.—A vacant lot adjoining the above, and bounded on the west by property of M. P. Lutz being forty feet in front, and about 214 feet in depth.

NOTE.—Any of the above premises can be examined at any reasonable time, by persons wishing to do so, and calling upon either M. P. Lutz, assignee, or C. B. Brockway.

FOURTH.—A tract of timber land in Beaver township, formerly known as Charles B. Troy tract, bounded by lands of Aaron Johnson, Thomas Downs, Isaac Davis, warrantee, Coxe lands and others containing 165 acres more or less.

FIFTH.—Three building lots in Glen City, Beaver township, formerly in the name of Charles R. Barnes.

SIXTH.—A tract of timber land in Beaver township containing 79 acres, more or less.

SEVENTH.—A tract of timber land in same township containing 118 acres more or less.

EIGHTH.—A tract of timber land in same township containing 54 acres more or less.

NINTH.—A tract of timber land in same township, containing 39 acres more or less.

NOTE.—Tracts 6, 7, 8, & 9 are contiguous, bounded by the Schuylkill county line, Roaringcreek township line, &c., on William Stewart, James McNeal, Henry Noar, and other warrants, and were commonly known as the Vanducem, Silliman & Co tracts.

TENTH.—A tract of timber land in Beaver township containing 83 acres of land more or less, intersected by the P. & R. R. R. Co., the Catawissa creek, adjoining Aaron Johnson,——Schell, and others.

THIRTEENTH.—A tract of timber land in Locust township in the warrantee name of John Everhart, containing 400 acres more or less.

FOURTEENTH.—Nine-fourtieths of a tract of timber land situate in Jackson and Sugarloaf townships, bounded by the Sullivan county line, lands of Samuel Yorks, Jesse and Mathias Rhone, John Klie, David Golden, Robert Montgomery and others, containing 700 acres, more or less, the remainder being owned by C. W. Miller.

FIFTEENTH.—A tract of timber land in Roaringcreek and Locust township, in the warrantee name of Thomas Barnes, jr., containing 60 acres, more or less.

NO. 16. Six lots in Montana City, Conyngham township, in Block "C," being No's 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, and 6.

NO. 17. Three lots in same place, in Block "C," being No's 2, 3 and 4.

NO. 18. Three lots in same place, in Block "J," being No's 1, 2 and 3.

NO. 19. Eleven lots in same place, in Block "K," No's 1 to 11 inclusive.

NOTE.—Any person desiring to see the town plot of said Montana City, as to the location of the above named lots, or their size, or who wishes to see the title thereto, can get the information by calling on C. B. Brockway prior to day of sale.

The above properties will be sold in the order named, the assignee reserving the power to adjourn the sale from time to time, as circumstances may require.

TERMS OF SALE.—Ten per cent of one-fourth of the purchase money to be paid at the striking down of the property; the one-half less the ten per cent, at the confirmation of the sale; and the remaining one-half in three months thereafter, with interest from confirmation nisi.

Notice to Correspondents.

In order to save many communications from the waste basket we make the following suggestions to local correspondents: Use only one side of the sheet, and write as plain as possible; give only the local news that is of some interest to the community, such as accidents, improvements, marriages, deaths, matter relating to schools and churches, business enterprises, changes of residence, and the like. Wait appear to be jokes at the expense of others, and personal matter giving only one name or initials or a nickname, will not be printed under any circumstances. Such items often give offense, though none may be intended. The full name of the writer must always be given, but will not be printed unless requested. tf

To Subscribers out of the State.

Hereafter all papers mailed out of the state must be paid for strictly in advance, $1.75 a year. We have to pay postage on them and in several instances we have lost not only the postage but the price of the paper. The date on each paper shows up to what time it is paid, and it will be stopped at the expiration of the time unless paid in advance. Self-protection compels us to adopt this pla n. tf

The largest bass that has been caught this season was taken by George Brewer in the river opposite Wm. Ferguson's last Thursday. It weighed a trifle over four pounds.

The festival of the Philologian Society last week was well attended, and the net proceeds were large. The society has been making many improvements in their hall, and the money goes to liquidate its indebtedness.

Arrangements have been made for a grand celebration of the 4th of July at Nanticoke. Military and civic societies will participate, and a large crowd will attend. We are informed that the Friendship Fire Company of this place will attend.

On Saturday evening G. A. Herring and his son Grant were driving above Ligatstreet, when their horse, a four-year old, suddenly shied, upsetting the buggy and throwing the occupants down the embankment. Both received cuts about the head, and the thills of the buggy were broken.

The firm of M. Levy & Co., of Berwick, having decided to dissolve partnership, are offering great bargains in clothing. Everybody has to buy clothes, and therefore it is to the interest of all to read the advertisement of this firm in this paper, and save money by taking advantage of the inducements offered.

Mr. C. E. Welliver of Morris, Tioga county, and Miss Callie Rabb, daughter of William Rabb, were married at the residence of the bride's parents on Wednesday afternoon at one o'clock, by Rev. F. P. Manhart. A number of relatives and friends were present. May good luck ever attend the the happy couple.

Ira T. Clement has a gang of men at work at Espy, Columbia county, digging lead ore. He intends going up in a day or two to examine the mine and make some improvements. Mr. Clement intends pushing the lead business for all it's worth. It hasn't been worth much so far, but the darkest hour is just before the dawn.—Sunbury Democrat.

William Bryson, candidate for Assembly, was born in Minersville, Schuylkill county. He has resided in this county the past 22 years, at Centralia. He was educated at the Normal School, and read law with the Hon. C. R. Buckalew. He was elected Representative two years ago, and now asks for a re-nomination. His brother James was District Attorney of this county Mr. Bryson's age is 36 years.

Last Saturday while Parvin Kile and David Lewis were looking around on the North Mountain near the head of Bear Run, they sat down on a log to rest awhile, when they saw a large black bear coming toward them. Fortunately, they had a gun and Kile drew up and shot the bear between the eyes, killing it instantly. He was a fine fellow.

Jonas Mann, of this town, died of lockjaw on Sunday night. About two weeks ago he assisted in raising a barn for John Whitenight and was hit on the hand with a stone. The wound healed rapidly and gave him no trouble. On Saturday his jaws commenced growing stiff, and on Sunday night he was a corpse. The wound he received on his hand, although a slight one, was evidently the cause of his death.

The Chautauqua movement has been extended to include the young folks, who already have a "Reading Union." They are now to have an illustrated periodical of high character, which will be issued in July by the publishers of the far-famed Wide Awake magazine, D. Lothrop & Co., Boston, who will send it free for two months to any of our readers who may request it.

George M. Lockard, candidate for the Democratic nomination for member of the Legislature, was born in Briarcreek township. He worked at Jackson and Woodin's shops in Berwick for 15 years, and taught school for five terms. In 1872 he moved to Bloomsburg, where he has since resided, extensively engage in car building. He has held several local offices but was never a candidate for county office. His age is 49 years. He is a married man.

From all that we can learn the candidates for county offices are making a cleaner canvass than has been made for some years. The practice of treating has fallen off largely, and the stock of campaign slanders does not seem to be as large as in past years. The feeling that every man should stand on his own merits, and not depend upon what he can say against his opponents, has grown among the people, and it is probable that the nominations this year will be made by the voters at the delegate election, and not by the wire-pullers.

Water was turned into the sewer pipe at the Normal School last Friday to ascertain whether there was fall enough to carry off the sewage. Owing to the dirt in the pipe it took some time for the water to work its way down to Market street, but after this was washed out, the water ran with considerable rapidity, showing that there will be no difficulty so far as the fall is concerned. Men are now at work on the trench from the railroad to the river, and the sewer will probably be completed by fall.

George A. Herring, candidate for County Treasurer, was born at Orangeville in 1834. He lived there until about 18 years of age, and then worked in Bloomsburg for four years. Spent some time in the west. His present business is farming, and clerk to the County Treasurer. He was engaged in boat building at Lime Ridge for 5 years, followed the mercantile business in Shenandoah, Schuylkill county, for 12 years, and the tanning business in this town for 5 years. He was never a candidate for county office here, but was Treasurer of Schuylkill county in 1871-2-3. Has been elected President of Town Council several years. His age is 50 years. He is a married man and has three children.

It is always a good rule to know what you want before you buy. It is also a good rule to be sure you are getting the best after you know what you want. Some years ago there was more or less distrust among farmers, of all agricultural machinery, because so much of it failed to do what it was intended for. But so many improvements have been made of late years, that a farmer can now get machinery that will do about all of his work, and do it thoroughly. There are hundreds of manufacturers of farming machinery, but among them all none stand higher than D. M. Osborne & Co. Many of their machines are in use in this county, and they are being constantly sold here. If these machines were not just what they are represented to be, the demand for them would have ceased long ago, but on the contrary more are being sold now than ever before. The local agency is in the hands of the enterprising firm of Harman & Hassert of this town, who are practical machinists, and who keep on hand all kinds of repairs for these machines, thus saving the necessity of sending away for parts in case of a break. Farmers will do well to consult them about mowers, reapers, binders, &c.

Model School Exhibition.

Normal Hall was well filled last Monday evening by the friends of the Model School children. The entertainment passed off very satisfactorily, and the children displayed careful training on the part of their teacher, Miss Brewster. The first part of the programme consisted of music, in which the orchestra, Helen Harman, Prof. Niles and Mary Thompson took part. Part second was "The Rebellion of the Daisies." The sunflowers, elated at being pronounced by Oscar Wilde the most beautiful of flowers, make prisoners of the king and queen of the daisies. The daisies narrowly escape being mowed down by the farmer and his men, their captors being in turn captured by a number of æsthetes.

King of Sunflowers—Frank Miller.
Queen of Sunflowers—Louise Jamison.
King of Daisies—Harris Curran.
Queen of Daisies—Claire Whitmoyer.
Chief of Police—Frazier Mann.
Botanist—Melvin Shultz.
Farmer—Wade Hartman.
General Daisy—Will Lowenberg.
Sunflowers, daisies, farmers, æsthetes, detectives.

Centre

Misses Ida and Lilley Bower are visiting friends at Orangeville.

Mrs. Elias Heller of Wapwallopen is the guest of Mrs. Wm. Hess.

Farmers are commencing to make hay.

Steward Henry of Fishingcreek drove through Centre on Sunday.

Mr. H. V. White and wife spent Sunday with his father.

The delegates gave a full report of the convention held at Webb's Run June 21. Thanks.

The farmer's favorite song is: "What shall the harvest be?"

Some of the young men have contracted to import and export letters to foreign ladies. The boys think they are the cheapest boarders.

Miss Burgess from Carlisle is visiting Indian boys through the county.

J. S. Hagenbuch is improving his house by building a veranda.

Francis Hess lost a very valuable farm horse.

Mrs. Wm. Fleckenstine and Mrs. Coleman from Orangeville were visiting in Centre on Sunday.

HAWKEYE.

The best dirt-proof watches made can be seen at L. Bernhard's jewelry store.

Stillwater.

Mr. William Hunsinger has purchased a lot of T. H. Edgar and broken ground for the erection of a house thereon.

Mr. Wm. Stoker is engaged in the erection of a large shed in connection with his other buildings. William is one of our most tasty farmers and believes in having things comfortable and convenient.

Mrs. J. J. Karns has the most lovely rose bush in this vicinity. It is a twining rose, only three years old and has 1400 roses and buds on it. Who can beat it?

Mr. Jerry Stiles, who has been farming for Daniel McHenry for some time, will start for Kansas with his wife and daughter next Tuesday, where he expects to make his future home. We are sorry to part with so good a neighbor, but wish him well in his new home.

The party which camped on the North Mountain near Bowman's creek and pond last week, consisting of Prof. Pealer and son, Mr. Dolph of Scranton, James, son of Harman Kline, and D. M. Kinter, caught 1131 trout, besides a number of pike and catfish. This is the largest catch we have heard of this season.

Everybody is anxiously watching the clouds for indications of rain. Vegetation is suffering somewhat and a few more days of dry weather will materially injure the oats and early potato crop.

The wheat is whitening for the harvest, and promises an abundant yield. X.

Berwick.

The C. L. S. C. will have its last meeting, of the nine months course, next Tuesday evening.

We are glad to hear Mr. W. H. Woodin has recovered from his indisposition.

Misses Lizzie Hanley and Maud Eaton, from Elmira Female College, reached here last Friday, to spend the summer vacation with their parents.

A. V. Bower sends home glowing descriptions of his European tour. We are glad to hear of his good health.

Theodore Sult's little girl fell from a fence and broke her arm last Thursday.

Mrs. Lizzie Jackson, Miss Helen Jamison, Misses Etta and Jennie Jackson returned from Boston Saturday evening, where the two young ladies have been attending the Laselle Seminary.

Miss Minnie Bower returned from the Seminary in Hackettstown, N. J. on Friday last.

An appeal for the tax payers was held in Jackson & Woodin's "little office" last Saturday evening, and according to the small attendance, Joe Faust must have done good work as an assessor.

Owing to to the illness of Prof. Kelly, the band failed to give its usual concert Saturday evening.

A fire was discovered having considerable headway in the rear of Little's drug store Tuesday morning about eleven o'clock, which was caused by throwing hot ashes on some dry wood, lying near the woodhouse. What might have been a large fire was extinguished by timely assistance.

The Crickets will cross bats with the Sunbury club Saturday 28th in Berwick.

The Base Ball Association started in Berwick has reached about thirty members. Had a meeting last Friday night and elected the following officers: For President, W. E. Smith; Secretary, S. H. Ruch; Treasurer, R. G. Crispin; Executive committee, H. F. Glenn, J. W. Evans and G. A. Buckingham.

The game between the "Association Nine" and the Crickets of this place, played at Danville last Saturday turned out to be very uninteresting after the fourth inning, the latter playing loose, and making several severe errors. From the start it was seen that Thomas was having poor luck as third baseman, on account of lameness, and especially Linville (who always plays a splendid game) could not manage to judge the balls properly. Nevertheless several fine plays were made on both sides. Heist, Reese and B. Sherwood made a double play, and S. McCoy made a home run. Fielding on both sides was done creditably. The score was 14 to 4 in favor of Danville.

FOR RENT.—The front room, second floor, of the COLUMBIAN building. One of the best rooms for an office in town. Heated by steam, lighted by gas, water on same floor, Apply to Geo. E. Elwell. tf

THE NORMAL SCHOOL.

Commencement Week.

The exercises of Commencement Week began with the preaching of the Baccalaureate sermon in the Lutheran church last Sunday evening. Rev. Joel Swartz, D. D., of Gettysburg, was the preacher, and the church was thronged with listeners. The school marched to the church in a body, headed by the Senior class wearing neat badges. The sermon was an able one, from the text "And they that be wise shall shine as the brightness of the firmament, and they that turn many to righteousness as the stars for ever and ever."—DANIEL, 12-3. After Dr. Swartz had closed, some well chosen remarks were made by Dr. Waller, Principal of the school.

On Monday evening the Model school gave an exhibition which is reported elsewhere.

On Tuesday evening Rev. B. F. Alleman of Shippensburg, formerly pastor of the Lutheran Church here, lectured before the Literary Societies of the school. His subject was "The Mission of Life," and it was discussed in a very interesting and instructive manner.

On Wednesday evening the Calliepian society had its annual reunion, which was well attended, and enjoyed by all, though the heavy rain that fell during the evening prevented many from being present who would otherwise have gone.

COMMENCEMENT.

On Thursday morning at 9:30 the final exercises which closed the student life of the Class of '84, were held in the Hall. The attendance was large, and the efforts of those who were fortunate enough to secure appointments for the occasion, were well prepared and nicely delivered.

NOTES.

The hall was crowded to overflowing, standing room being scarcely obtainable.

The lady graduates were attired in becoming white dresses, and wore natural flowers.

The speakers and essayists were each rewarded with handsome baskets of flowers by admiring friends.

The music by the Orchestra and music pupils was a very agreeable feature of the programme.

The Diplomas were presented to the Class by Judge Elwell, President of the Board of Trustees.

At the close of the exercises the Alumni Association met in the chapel, and after some routine business, and literary exercises, adjourned to the Central Hotel, where a banquet was held, in which a large number participated. Several toasts were proposed and happily responded to.

The Seniors held a reception in the school parlors in the evening.

Class Day.

The Class Day exercises of the Senior class at the Normal School took place on Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The order of exercises was as follows:

CLASS SONG.

Composed by Anna Hoban.

With joy and sorrow blended
Our final year is ended;
Fondest year, with a tear,
Thee we bid adieu!
Long we've toiled together
Through bright and stormy weather;
Friends have met, and linger yet
To part with you.

Fain our voices tarry,
And their blendings carry
Back the heart, with each part
Of familiar song and chorus;
Thus the time is fleeting,
And our joyous meeting
Softly steals itself away
With swift departing day.

Each fond memory glowing,
Joys departed showing,
Calls to mind sweet and kind
Pictures of the past;
And our hearts still keeping
These dear mem'ries sleeping,
Wake again joy and pain
That could not last.

Fain our footsteps wander,
And our minds still ponder,
While a sigh lingers nigh,
Wakening every tender feeling;
And mid joy and gladness,
Comes the thought of sadness—
That we the Class of Eighty-four
Must part forever more.

Though the weather was very unfavorable, a heavy rain falling at the time, the attendance was large. The exercises were held in the hall instead of on the campus. Owing to a delay in receiving the memorial to be presented to the school by the class, the presentation was not made, and no one has been able to learn what the gift is to be, a fact which proves that young ladies can keep a secret if they want to. The exercises were interesting, and the Prophesies and Presentation of gifts to members of the class contained many good hits that were greatly enjoyed by those who understood them.

Centralia.

Miss Annie Burns an estimable young lady, died on Tuesday from that terrible disease consumption. Her remains were conveyed to St. Ignatius' church on Thursday morning where a requiem mass was celebrated by Rev. Russell, after which interment took place.

The consecration of Odd Fellows Cemetery was performed on Thursday. The following societies participated, viz: Citizen's Cornet Band, Sons of America, and Odd Fellows headed by the Rev. G. M. Larned in carriage. The cemetery is qenatifully situated on an elevation south of town and reflects great credit on the Odd Fellows for its fine appearance.

One of the grandest sights ever witnessed in Centralia was the celebration of a Requiem High Mass for the deceased pastor of St. Ignatius' church on Thursday. Over forty clergymen were present, in the procession followed by at least five hundred parishioners. The lady members of the sodality were dressed in white, and their medals were suspended from black ribbons. The church was draped in mourning, also the three altars. The catafalque was erected in the central aisle on either side of which stood three lighted tapers. Rev. Koch of Shamokin, celebrated mass, and the eulogy was delivered by Rev. McManus of Lost Creek in a very able manner.

The Logan, Centralia and Bast collieries paid their employees on Saturday, and we had an unusually large number of drunken men on our streets.

The Citizen's Band picnicked in Hazel Dell grove on Saturday, and realized quite a neat sum. Among the visitors was the Grant Band of Shenandoah which enliveneed the town with some choice music.

Some mischievous boys cut the telephone wires between Logan colliery and the town office on Sunday. When the linemen came to repair it, they found over fifty feet of the wire stolen. We suppose someone was in need of a clothes line.

Mr. Ferguson, employed as a watchman at the small pox house, was attacked by two young men of town on Saturday night, because he would not allow them near the building. Mr. Ferguson, with the aid of a club was one too many for them, and used them up pretty badly and afterwards had them locked up.

Joseph Fyfe of Girardville was in town on Saturday trying to organize a watch club. As Mr. Fyfe has several clubs in several adjoining towns, we have no doubt but he will meet with success here also.

It is rumored that one of our worthy citizens, M. McNalis, will superintend the inside workings of Lentz, Lilly & Co's collieries at Mahanoy City.

Jno. P. Hannon is repairing the house he lately purchased on Centre street. A coat of paint would not hurt it in the least.

A new ambulance has been procured for the Continental colliery. It was built in Pottsville and is a fine piece of workmanship.

Superintendent Heefner received over two hundred volumes, for the High School library last week, and intends to have that many more, before the school term opens.

Charles Weidensaul of Mt. Carmel spent a few days in town this week.

Jas. Kelly took in the excursion to Philadelphia on Tuesday.

A DUTY I OWE.

Williamsport, Pa., Dec 21, 1882.

John H. Phelps, Scranton Pa., Dear Sir—I feel it my duty to inform you how much good you have done me through your Rheumatic Elixir. I have been a very bad sufferer with Inflammatory Rheumatism for over two years, half of the time not able to walk without crutches or canes. I have used three bottles of your Rheumatic Elixir. I pronounce myself entirely cured of rheumatism when all other remedies and treatment failed to give relief. And I am in better health now than I have been for years. I hope your circulars with their wonderful testimonials, will reach every sufferer with that terrible disease, rheumatism, and may encourage them to give the Rheumatic Elixir a thorough trial. I can recommend the Rheumatic Elixir with great confidence.

I am respectfully yours,
J. H. ARNOLD.

The Stage-Driver's Story.

HOW GENERAL SCOTT'S LIFE WAS SAVED AND HOW HIS DRIVER TWICE ESCAPED DEATH.

The traveler of the present day, as he is hurried along by the lightning express, in its buffet cars and palace sleepers, seldom reverts in thought to the time when the stage coach and packet were the only means of communication between distant points. It is rare that one of the real old-time stage drivers is met with now-a-days and when the writer recently ran across Fayette Haskell, of Lockport, N. Y., he felt like a bibliographer over the discovery of some rare volume of "forgotten lore," Mr. Haskell, although one of the pioneers in stage driving (he formerly ran from Lewiston to Niagara falls and Buffalo), is hale and hearty and bids fair to live for many years. The strange stories of his early adventures would fill a volume At one time when going down a mountain near Lewiston with no less a personage than General Scott as a passenger, the brakes gave way and the coach came on the heels of the wheel horses. The only remedy was to whip the leaders to a gallop. Gaining additional momentum with each revolution of the wheels the coach swayed and pitched down the mountain side and into the streets of Lewistown. Straight ahead at the foot of the steep hill flowed the Niagara river, towards which the four horses dashed, apparently to certain death. Yet the firm hand never relaxed its hold nor the clear brain its conception of what must be done in the emergency. On dashed the horses until the narrow dock was reached on the river bank, when by a masterly exhibition of nerve and daring, the coach was turned in scarce its own length and the horses brought to a stand still before the pale lookers-on could realize what had occurred. A purse was raised by General Scott and presented to Mr. Haskell with high compliments for his skill and bravery.

Notwithstanding all his strength and his robust constitution the strain of continuous work and exposure proved too much for Mr. Haskell's constitution. The constant jolting of the coach and the necessarily cramped position in which he was obliged to sit, contributed to this end, and at times he was obliged to abandon driving altogether.

Speaking of this period he said:

"I found it almost impossible to sleep at night; my appetite left me entirely and I had a tired feeling which I never knew before and could not account for."

"Did you give up driving entirely?"

"No. I tried to keep up but it was only with the greatest effort. This state of things continued for nearly twenty years until last October when I went all to pieces."

"In what way?"

"Oh, I doubled all up; could not walk without a cane and was incapable of any effort or exertion. I had a constant desire to urinate both day and night and although I felt like passing a gallon every ten minutes only a few drops could escape and they thick with sediment. Finally it ceased to flow entirely and I thought death was very near."

"What did you do then?"

"What I should have done long before; listen to my wife. Under her advice I began a new treatment."

"And with what result?"

"Wonderful. It unstopped the closed passages and what was still more wonderful regulated the flow. The sediment vanished; my appetite returned and I am now well and good for twenty more years wholly through the aid of Warner's Safe Cure that has done wonders for me as well as for so many others."

Mr. Haskell's experience is repeated every day in the lives of thousands of American men and women. An unknown evil is undermining the existence of an innumerable number who do not realize the danger they are until health has entirely departed and death perhaps stares them in the face. To neglect such important matters is like drifting in the current of Niagara above the Falls.

Fish Lines Six Miles Long.

"They fish with lines six miles long in Winnebago lake, Wisconsin, and use 20,000 hooks on every line," said a fisherman who had been there, "and if they don't haul up 2,000 fish everytime they call it indifferent luck. And every fish will weigh from twenty to seventy pounds. That's the way they fish for sturgeon out there.

"One of these lines will reach half way across the lake. It is a rope an inch in diameter. It is carried out in the lake, large buoys being attached to it at intervals to keep it on the surface. The 20,000 hooks, baited with pieces of meat or fish, are lowered to the bottom of the lake by snoods of the proper length attached to the line. It takes twenty boats, with two men in each, to look after this big fish line. Each boat has a thousand hooks in its charge. The hooks are placed 18 inches apart, and to bait all the hooks once requires not less than 1,000 pounds of meat. It takes 40 men and 20 boats 10 hours to set the line the first time. After that the fishermen are constantly employed in going to and fro over the line, hauling in the sturgeon that have been canght on the hooks and rebaiting when it is necessary.

"To haul in a 70-pound sturgeon from the lake is an exciting piece of work, but requires more strength than skill, as the fish always has the hook several inches down his throat, having sucked bait and all down without any regard to consequences. There is no danger or losing the fish unless the snood or the hook breaks. When the fish is hauled to the surface, a gaff like a meat hook is thrust into the side of its head, and the sturgeon is drawn into the boat and knocked in the head with a mallet. The hook is cut out of its throat, rebaited, and thrown back into the lake.

"The average catch of sturgeon is one to every ten hooks. When a boat is loaded with all it will carry of sturgeon, the fishermen row back to the shore, where others take the fish and dispose of them. The fishermen know the particular sections of the line on which they work by the arrangement of the buoys. These are placed ten feet apart, and every 250th one is red. This space between the red buoys contains 1,000 hooks. The sections are number, and every boat has its number corresponding with the section it fishes. While the average catch of sturgeon is one to every ten hooks, it is no uncommon thing for the fisherman to find but one or two on an entire section of 1,000 hooks.

"The Lake Winnebago sturgeon is highly prized among the lumbermen and others in the region. Its flesh is finer and of better flavor than the salt water sturgeon's. The flesh sells for six cents a pounds at retail. Large quantities are salted and smoked for use in the lumber camps."

Butter that will Keep.

An authority on dairying says that the keeping qualities of butter depends, more than on any other one thing, upon the entire removal from the butter of the buttermilk and what the buttermilk contains. Butter is mainly a fat, which fat, purified of everything foreign, will keep without salt if protected from the air. Salt would not help it to keep. Indeed, the two things, butter-fat and salt, have no chemical affinity for each other. On the other hand, buttermilk contains a considerable proportion of solid matter of a membraneous or caseous nature, upon which salt has a preservative effect. Butter as pure as it can be made, by the best known process, will contain more or less of this membraneous and other foreign matter. It will require, at the best, as much salt as would be desirable for the sake of eating quality, to act as a preservative of what foreign matter is inevitable. If an undue quantity of the foreign matter be left in the butter, more salt would be required than would be good for the taste, or eating quality, of the butter. Moreover, while butter, even without salt, is slow to take injury from the air, or become rancid, the foreign matter in butter is quick to spoil or become putrid, and salt in any quantity will only keep back the spoiling for a time. From this it will be seen that if the butter is made to contain an undue proportion of foreign matter, it will require, in order to preserve it, so much salt that the taste will be injured, and even then its time of keeping will be limited, because of the presence of the foreign matter. Its life will be shorter, indeed, than that of other butter, less salted, or not salted at all.

The Best Stock the Cheapest.

It may be laid down as the first rule—a foundation principle—that the very best and purest stock that is really adapted to the end in view, should be sought after. It costs even less to feed a horse of good blood and lineage than it does to maintain a scrub; it costs no more to shelter him; it costs less to groom him and to keep him in condition than it does to keep the scrub from looking like a scarecrow. His movements is almost invariably smoother and steadier for the same rate of speed; his temper is generally better, his pluck and energy not less so, and if it is found necessary to put him upon the market he brings a better price. The service of a stallion known to be of good blood, and possessing adequate powers of transmission, must of course cost more. There must be a dam adapted to the obtaining of a foal of the best type possible from such a sire; but the penny-wise pound-foolish policy of refusing to avail one's self of these advantages when in the bounds of possibility, is too apparent. Taking it for granted, then, that the best in this case is always the cheapest, that the finer and purer the horse can be, other things being equal, the more useful, more easily maintained, and more marketable he is bound to be, it remains to consider some points that must always be regarded by the intelligent breeder, who seeks wisely to adjust means to end rather than to trust to chance.—Farm, Field and Fireside.

Useful to Know.

TIP-TOP CAKE.—One pound of sugar, one cupful of butter, four eggs, one cupful of milk, one pound of chopped raisins, half a pound of chopped figs, half a grated nutmeg, one small teaspoonful of soda, one tasspoonful of cream of tartar, flour to make it of a proper consistency.

TO CLEAN BRASS WORK.—Brass work can be polished by rubbing the metal with finely-powdered tripoli mixed with linseed oil and applied with a rubber made from a piece of an old hat or felt. Or else a mixture of glycerine, stearine, naphthaline, or creosote mixed with diluted sulphuric acid can be used.

ASPARAGUS.—Asparagus is delicious if a piece of juicy and tender lamb is cooked with it. Or it may be boiled in stock made of the bones and remains of a chicken. Serve with thin slices of toast. After you are tired of having it plain it will appear almost like a new dish, and be eaten with relish, if cooked in this way.

CRYSTALIZING FRUITS AND NUTS.—To crystalize oranges and nuts, take one cup of sugar, one small cup of water and the juice of one lemon. Let this boil until the syrup, when dropped from a spoon, looks like fine hairs, and is brittle. Then dip small pieces of orange into this; lay them on buttered plates to dry. The whole meats of English walnuts are very nice crystalized in this way.

FLAVORING MEATS.—It is a good plan to vary the manner in which you flavor the roast of beef; this can be done by squeezing the juice of half a lemon over it and putting the other half of a carrot, one small onion and a little parsley in the dripping pan and lay the roast over it. Do not be led by any bad adviser to put one drop of water into your dripping pan until you have tried the experiment of roasting beef in this way. It makes a striking difference in the flavor if the juice is alt kept within and the meat is tender in consequence of this.

TRANSPARENT PUDDING.—Butter a pudding dish, and line it with slices of stale sponge cake cut an inch thick. Put stewed or ripe fresh fruit, or preserves, in the bottom of the dish upon the cake. Beat to a cream the yolk of eight eggs, quarter of a pound of butter. Flavor to taste with rose or peach water, add half a grated nutmeg, and stir in lightly the stiffly-beaten whites of the eggs. Pour the mixture over the fruit and bake half an hour. Beat the whites of four eggs to a stiff froth and add four tablespoonfuls of sugar; spread over the pudding after it is baked and return it to the oven for a few minutes to color. To be eaten cold, with or without cream.

ARROW ROOT PUDDING.—This frozen makes a tempting dish for dessert. To one quart of milk allow one table spoonful of arrowroot and the well-beaten yolks of six eggs; sweeten to your taste; flavor with wine or with vanilla. Put it into a mould and freeze. If you wish to take the trouble, it is a pretty addition to the good looks of the pudding to make a frosting of the whites of the eggs, and after turning the pudding out of the mould on a platter, put the frosting all over it. If of an economical turn of mind, the yolks of the eggs may be used for a cake. The milk should be boiled before putting the arrowroot into it, and that should be rubbed smooth in a little cold milk. Fewer eggs may be used if it is thought desirable, and more arrowroot will be needed.

A Soutoern editor asserts that angels are all blondes, but blondes are not all angels. It is painfully apparent that his wife is not a brunette.

Vital Questions!!!!

Ask the most eminent physician

Of any school, what is the best thing in the world for quieting and allaying all irritation of the nerves, and curing all forms of nervous complaints, giving natural, childlike refreshing sleep always?

And they will tell you unhesitatingly

"Some form of Hops!!!"

CHAPTER I.

Ask any or all of the most eminent physicians:

"What is the best and only remedy that can be relied on to cure all diseases of the kidneys and urinary organs; such as Bright's disease, diabetes, retention, or inability to retain urine, and all the diseases and ailments peculiar to Women"—

"And they will tell you explicitly and emphatically "Buchu!!!!"

Hence, when these remedies are combined with others equally valuable,

And compounded into Hop Bitters, such a wonderful and mysterious curative power is developed, which is so varied in its operations that no disease or ill health can possibly exist or resist its power, and yet it is Harmless for the most frail woman, weakest invalid or smallest child to use.

Ask the same physicians

"What is the most reliable and surest cure for all liver diseases or dyspepsia; constipation, indigestion, biliousness, malaria fever ague, &c.," and they will tell you:

Mandrake! or Dandelion!!!!"

CHAPTER. II

"Patients

"Almost dead or nearly dying"

For years, and given up by physicians, of Bright's and other kidney diseases, liver complaints, severe coughs, called consumption, have been cured.

Women gone nearly crazy!!!!

From agony of nearalgia, nervousness, wakefulness, and various diseases peculiar to women.

People drawn out of shape from excruciating pangs of rheumatism, inflammatory and chronic, or suffering from scrofula.

SPEER'S

PORTUGAL GRAPE WINE

ALSO

UNFERMENTED GRAPE JUICE.

Used in the principal Churches for Communion. Excellent for Females, Weakly Persons and the Aged.

EXCELLENT FOR FEMALES AND WEAKLY PERSONS

Speer's Port Grape Wine!

FOUR YEARS OLD.

THIS CELEBRATED WINE is the pure juice of the dead ripe Oporto Grape, raised in Speer's vineyards. Its invaluable,

Tonic and Strengthening Properties

are unsurpassed by any other Wine. Being produced under Mr. Speer's own personal supervision, its purity and genuineness, are guaranteed by the principal Hospitals and Boards of Health who have examined it. The youngest child may partake of it, and the weakest invalid use it to advantage. It is particularly beneficial to the aged and debilitated, and suited to the various ailments that affect the weaker sex.

It is in every respect A WINE TO BE RELIED ON.

Speer's Unfermented Grape Juice.

Is the juice of the Oporto Grapes preserved in its natural, fresh, sweet state as it runs from the press by fumigation, thereby destroying the exciter of fermentation. It is perfectly pure, free from spirits and will keep in any climate.

Speer's Burgundy.

Is a dark rich medium Dry Wine used by the wealthy classes as a Table or Dinner Wine, and by physicians in cases where a dry wine instead of a sweet port is desired.

Speer's (Socialite) Claret.

Is held in high estimation for its richness as a Dry Table Wine especially suited for dinner use.

Speer's P. J. Sherry.

Is a wine of Superior Character and partakes of the rich qualities of the grape from which it is made.

Speer's P. J. Brandy.

IS A PURE distillation from the grape, and stands unrivalled in this country for medicinal purposes.

It has a peculiar flavor, similar to that of the grapes from which it is distilled,

See that the signature of ALFRED SPEER, Passaic N. J., is over the cork of each bottle.

SOLD BY C. A. KLEIM.

AND BY DRUGGISTS EVERY WHERE.

CATARRH Hay Fever,

HAY-FEVER

is a type of catarrh having peculiar symptoms. It is attended by an inflamed condition of the lining membrane of the nostrils, tear-ducts, and throat, affecting the lungs. An acrid mucus is secreted, the discharge is accompanied with a painful burning sensation. There are severe spasms of sneezing, frequent attacks of blinding headache, a watery and inflamed state of the eyes.

Ely's Cream Balm is a remedy founded on a correct diagnosis of the disease and can be depended upon. 50 cts. at druggists; 60 cts. by mail. Sample bottle by mail 10 cts. ELY BROS, Owego, N. Y.

I recommend to those suffering (as I have) with Hay Fever, Ely's Cream Balm. I have tried nearly all the remedies, and give this a decided preference over them all. It has given me immediate relief. C. T. STEPHENS, Hardware Merchant, Ithaca, N. Y. June 29-4 w

GRAY'S SPECIFIC MEDICINE.

TRADE MARK THE GREAT ECO-TRADE MARK

LIAN REMEDY. An unfailing cure for Seminal Weakness, Spermatorrhœa, Impotency, and all Diseases that follow as a sequence of Self-Abuse; as loss of Memory, Universal Lassitude, Pain in the Back, Dimness of Vision, Premature Old Age, and many other diseases that lead to Insanity or Consumption and a Premature Grave.

BEFORE TAKING. AFTER TAKING.

Beware of advertisements to refund money, when druggists from whom the medicine is bought do not refund, but refer you to the manufacturers and the requirements are such that they are impossible of compliance with, and their written guarantee. A trial of one single package of Gray's Specific will convince the most skeptical of its real merits.

On account of counterfeits, we have adopted the Yellow Wrapper as the only genuine.

Full particulars in our pamphlet, which we desire to send free by mail to any address. The Specific Medicine is sold by all druggists at $1 per package or 6 packages for $5, or will be sent free by mail on the receipt of the money, by addressing THE GRAY MEDICINE CO., Buffalo, N. Y.

Sold in Bloomsburg by all druggists.
